

2011-2012 Class Information

- We are excited to again offer weekly classes for home schoolers in the Mansfield area.
- Send in the registration form to Mansfield Christian School as soon as possible.
- Building fees are only refundable if the class is canceled due to insufficient numbers. Payment for classes is made to the individual teachers.
- Home School students do not need to be enrolled in Mansfield Christian's Independent Studies Program to participate.
- Modest dress code is required.

Why enroll in weekly home school classes? A teacher's perspective as a home school parent:

Home school classes offered by Mansfield Christian School are designed not only to supplement the efforts of home school parents, but to provide the much-needed transition from the independent learner mode to a more traditional type of classroom setting.

These classes prepare students in necessary skills to move on to the next level educationally, such as lab skills, note-taking skills, writing skills, reading skills, listening/ attentiveness skills, and test-taking skills. As you can see, the benefit of these classes at MCS are more than just learning a topic/subject in a classroom setting.

As a home school parent of 6 children, as well as a teacher, I believe that any parent that has children considering post high school education would serve their student well by enrolling them into these classes offered so they feel prepared, not as much intellectually, but in confidence in their skills to excel at this next educational level."

These classes are simply an option for you to consider when teaching your children at home. We are in no way insinuating that you can't do a good job at home. We are here to serve you. May the Lord bless your efforts to train your children up in the ways of the Lord in order to bring Jesus honor and glory.
